SILVER'S FUTURE.

Speaking of silver and an arrangement for it, if the authorities in Washington were in sympathy with the people and would call a convention of the Republics of this continent and include with it a call for delegates from France and from Russia, silver could be remonetized. We as a nation are failing to comprehend the significance of Russia and what she ought to be in this country. In two or three years more she will have pushed a railroad from St. Petersburg down by the Caspian sea, then across southern and central Asia to the Sea of Japan. In that way she will shut her great rival, England, out of the trade of Asia, that is, all Asia except India and a little with China. Her eastern ports will be only about fifteen days from San Francisco to Puget Sound, and the construction of a road through Siberia will open a mighty country, filled with mines and with great agricultural possibilities, and if our country were but alert enough, it would even now be making trade relations with that great Empire and would be working to have a common currency for both countries. We believe silver is going to regulate itself pretty soon, because the pressure in England and India is so severe that there is to be a smashing there pretty soon unless something is fixed, but without that our country could, with Russia settle the matter easily enough without the assistance of the outside so-called commercial world. — Salt Lake Tribune.

SILVER NOTES.

The demonization of silver in 1873 and the repeal of the Sherman act in 1893 have been the principal causes leading to influence Coxe and his Commonwealth army to march towards Washington in the hopes of reaching there. — Denver Mining Record.

The fact that a daily paper is to be launched in Boston, with free silver coinage as its motto and mission, is significant of the growth of bimetallic sentiment in the far East. Light is surely breaking. — Leadville Herald-Democrat.

Sir Morton Frewen agrees that the veto of the seigniorage bill is a good thing for the silver cause. And so do all thoughtful people. Like Tom Bowen's decisions, that bill didn't suit anybody. — Herald-Democrat.

When girls get together they will say things. One of them was telling of a party in which she had participated. "And when we got back," said she, "we were chilled through. So while the boys took a smoke, we sat and hugged the stove." "Well!" exclaimed the girl with the big eyes, "I think you might have hugged the boys and let the stove done the smoking."

Now that Miss Pollard has obtained a verdict for $15,000 against Congressman Breckenridge, the old hypocrite should pay every dollar of it and then go and hang himself. If he does not, his friends should anchor him in a tank for the balance of his life. It would improve his odor. — Independent.

A sign has been put up at the Mid-Winter Fair to direct people to the Nevada building. The structure is in such an out of the way locality that heretofore a stranger unfamiliar with the surroundings had difficulty in finding it.

Abe Cohn returned from San Francisco yesterday. He says we don't know what hard times are up here, and that the only solvent concession at the Mid-Winter Fair is the '49 Camp, which has made money.

A female Industrial Army is being formed. When they camp along the route, sleeping with mother earth as a mattress, they are not liable to look under the bed for the traditional man.

It is said that Meyer's scheme for the coinage of the seigniorage meets the approval of the President. In that case it is probably not favorable to the silver interests.

Civil Service Examination.

Tuesday Postmaster Krause conducted the civil service examination at Reno. The following took the examination: George Ryan and Wm. Ryan, Railway Mail Service; Theresa C. Pohl and Alice H. Gayhart, Teachers in the Indian Service; Daniel Dillard, Department Clerk; and E. M. Van Harlingen, Topographical Draughtsman.
